ST. ANDREW. There is an ancient lodge of distinguished Masons in Boston, Mass., bearing the name of St. Andrew, of which General Joseph Warren, who well at Bunker Hill, was the first master. When many of the members of this new Commandery were in Boston in June, 1875, as members of Richmond Commarked courtesies from this grand old lodge. The friendships thus formed doubtless had their influence in turning the minds of the members of the new commandery to the selection of this name for their command.

MEMOIR OF ST. ANDREW. St. Andrew was born at Bethsaida, a city of Gallilee, situated on the shores of the Lake Tiberias, in Palestine. As the name imports, it was a place for fishing and hunting, the adjacent country abounding with deer, and the sea with tish. It is said that Philip the Tetrarch formed it into a magnificent city and called it Julias, after the daughter of the Emperor Augustus; and it was here that Jesus performed many of His miracles.

Andrew was the brother of Simon Peter. and both were the sons of John, or Jonas, a fisherman of the place of their nativity. The former, before the advent of Jesus as a public teacher, had been a disciple of John the Baptist, and was probably a member of the Essenian sect, to which John belonged. If so this will in some measure, at least, account for the learning and ability which he subsequently exhibited in his public ministry. He was Departing from Jerusalem, he first travelled through Cappadocia, Gallatia, Bythinia, instructing the inhabitants in the new faith, and then continued his journey along the Euxine sea into the desert of Scythia. An ancient author tells us that he first came to Amynsus, where he preached in one of the Jewish synagogues, converted many of the people, and ordained priests. He next went to Trapezium, a maritime city on the Euxine sea, from whence, after visiting many other places, he came to Nice, in northern Italy, where he stayed two years, preaching and working miracles with great success. Leaving here he passed to Nicomedia, and from thence to Chalcedon, whence he sailed through the Propontis to the Euxine again, and from thence he went to Heraclea, and Kelley) testified that McLean acknowledged afterwards to Amastris; in all of which he got the money.
